Int'l Faldo Course Mission Hills

At 216 holes, the Mission Hills Golf Club, outside the city of Shenzhen, China, is rated by the Guinness Book of Records as the world's largest golf club. By itself, that claim to fame doesn't mean very much, but a look at the list of designers of various 18 hole sections of the course will tell you that this is an exceptional club by anyone's standards. Here are a few names attached to Mission Hills various tracks: Jack Nicklaus, Greg Norman, Annika Sorenstam, Ernie Els, Vijay Singh, Nick Faldo, Jose Maria Olazabal, David Daval, Jumbo Ozaki and David Leadbetter. Mission Hills is a full-service, luxury resort, featuring four clubhouses, three spas, a five-star hotel, three golf academies (including schools from world renowned instructors David Leadbetter and Cindy Reid), and numerous fine dining establishments serving cuisine from around the world.... We invite you to join us at one of the greatest golf adventures of your life; one that you will be sharing with friends for many years to come!
